London Jail Escapee Came Into District, Deputies Say

Stolen Station Wagon Found Near Bloomfield;
19-Year Old Youth Caught In Madison County

The stationwagon automobile used by Carl Castle in his flight from Madison County authorities was found in a cornfield Friday afternoon one mile west of South Bloomfield on Route 316.

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff confirmed Saturday morning that the car was discovered on the Tim Miller farm, one-half mile east of the Scioto River bridge in that area. A note, written by the 19-year old youth, was pasted to the window and read: "This car was stolen from the London Children's home—please return it here."

According to Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff, Castle told Madison County authorities he abandoned the car in a cornfield in Pickaway County Friday morning. Castle was caught later that day in Mechanicsburg.

The message was relayed to the sheriff here who happened to be driving near the area. Sheriff Radcliff said he radioed back to Circleville for a plane to be sent up to search the general area.

WARREN HARMON, co-owner of the Harmon-Schell Repair Service at Elsea Airport outside of Circleville, immediately took off in a plane. As it turned out, both he and a man searching the area on the ground spotted the automobile at about the same time.

Sheriff Radcliff said he started from Five Points, where he was when he received the radio report, to the general area. On the way he met a man named Collins who said he knew where there was a spot a car could enter a corn field near the Scioto River Bridge.

Castle, who made his escape from the Madison County jail by throttling a 66-year old deputy, said the station wagon ran out of gas in the cornfield. Also, Castle added, the car became stuck in a rut.

Castle told Madison County authorities he slept in the car over night and abandoned it early in the morning.

Sheriff Radcliff said he has not talked with Madison County officials. He said he had no idea how Castle got from Columbus, where he reportedly visited a sister and brother-in-law to the cornfield in Pickaway County.

There was no immediate explanation as to how the youth doubled back into Madison County.

Lockbourne's Race Fans Can Attend Chapel

Auto racing enthusiasts who attend the National Sports Car Races at Lockbourne Air Force Base Sunday will have an opportunity to attend church services at the big air installation.

The races, supervised by the Strategic Air Command for the benefit of base personnel are expected to attract more than 100,000 spectators.

Special route signs will direct the churchgoers to the different services.

Lutheran worship will be conducted in the west chapel at 8:45 a. m. by Chaplain Major George E. Mennan.

General Protestant services will be conducted by Chaplain Major Warren J. Jenkins in the same chapel at 9:45 and 11 a. m. Catholic Masses will be said in the east chapel at 9 and 10 a. m. by a chaplain to be assigned.

Sen. Jenner, Ex-Sergeant Trade Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The firing was hot and heavy when a couple of wartime Army men, former Capt. William E. Jenner and ex-Sgt. William P. Gandall, faced each other in a congressional hearing room yesterday.

Gandall accused Jenner, now for work is a direct crime; cases are known when documents were stolen from inattentive people on street cars and trains.

Jenner promptly called Gandall a liar. The Indiana Republican was trying to show at a committee hearing that the witness, Gandall, did writing and other work for the Army's information and education program despite a long connection with left-wing causes.

Gandall said one thing he did was try to improve morale at Marbury Hall Reception Center in England where he said, "guys were going on drunks."

"Including, he added, "Jenner." "I had to pull him out of a pub," the witness recounted, in tones that would have carried across a parade ground.

"You know you are lying," Jenner said.

"Many a sergeant," Gandall told the senator, "saw you drunk and disorderly. We didn't call you the captain of the night for nothing." Gandall, a 45-year-old New Yorker who gave his occupation as "publicist" and said he has been a union organizer and editor, denied being a Communist now but refused to say, on grounds of possible self-incrimination, whether he ever had been a Communist.

10 County Fairs Slated Next Week

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Auglaize County Fair at Wapakoneta opened today for a seven-day program, one of 10 fairs scheduled in Ohio in the coming week.

The Athens and Richland County fairs run from Aug. 11-14; the Champaign County Fair at Urbana opens Aug. 8 and will run through Aug. 13; the Clinton County fair at Wilmington, Aug. 10-14; Gallia County Fair at Gallipolis, Aug. 12-14; Wood County Fair at Bowling Green Aug. 9-14; the Attica Independent Fair at Attica Aug. 11-14; and the Hartford Independent Fair at Croton Aug. 10-14.

Capitol Highlights This Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress began operating on borrowed time this week but, if anything, the pace on Capitol Hill became more leisurely.

In the weeks before July 31—onetime target date for adjournment—the congressional gait quickened and members seemed eager for summer vacations and the impending election campaign.

July 31 came and went, however, and now there's a new target—Aug. 14. But the latest bull's eye doesn't seem to hold the same attraction. Some members now appear not to care when they leave Washington.

MCCARTHY — The Senate decided, 75-12, that a move to censure McCarthy for allegedly unseemly conduct should be studied by a special committee that would make a progress report before adjournment. The Senate then would vote whether to stay in session to act on a final report that could be weeks away.

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) made the censure motion, claiming McCarthy's conduct "tends to bring the Senate into disrepute."

Picking the group that will weigh these charges was not an easy task for Senate party leaders.

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), tabbed as chairman of the committee, said, "I think I can say positively that there were no volunteers."

His fellow "draftees" are Sens. Johnson (D-Colo.), vice chairman, Case (R-SD), Carlson (R-Kan.), Stennis (D-Miss) and Ervin (D-NC).

The group decided to hold off its hearings until the Senate finishes legislation.

McCarthy expressed no displeasure at the week's events.

"It is imperative we have a vote (on the censure motion) before we go home," he said.

FOREIGN AID — President Eisenhower's foreign aid program ran into real trouble this week—but not for long. The Senate voted to lower by half a billion dollars the ceiling on foreign aid spending in the current fiscal year.

Next day, Eisenhower called the action unfortunate and said it hurt the country. Within minutes, Senate-House conferees restored 319 million dollars of the Senate cut. And they rejected a Senate proviso that would have killed all military aid by June 30, 1957. However, the conference group recommended economic assistance end by June 30, 1956.

New Legal Move Tried In Death Case

CLEVELAND (AP)—Defense attorneys planned another legal maneuver today in the fight to block a preliminary hearing of a first degree murder charge against Dr. Samuel Sheppard.

They said they would file an affidavit of prejudice against the man who ordered him jailed, Gershom Barber, Bay Village council president.

It was Barber, as acting mayor, who issued the warrant charging the young osteopath clubbed his 31-year-old wife Marilyn, to death in the bedroom of their Bay Village home July 4. Sheppard, 30, blames the attack on "a bushy-haired stranger."

Timothy F. McMahon, one of Sheppard's lawyers, said "from what I've read in the newspapers, the statements Barber has made clearly indicate his prejudice."

Originally Barber set the preliminary hearing for this afternoon. Later it was continued to next Monday. Unless both sides agree, it cannot be postponed any further. The purpose of the hearing is to decide whether there is enough evidence to hold Dr. Sheppard for the grand jury.

Detectives last night took a lengthy statement from a 20-year-old Cornell University medical student who described himself as an admirer of Sheppard. They did not report what they had learned from Gervase M. Flick, who had visited the doctor during the day.

But Flick, son of an osteopath at Bay View Hospital, where Sheppard practices, said he "gave them several leads."

Truman Sparks Democrat Rally

Ex-President Ready To Help In Campaign

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—If the Democrats capture Congress from the Republicans in November, they will give a lot of credit to that old political warrior, former President Harry S. Truman.

Even though weak and wan from illness and an operation, it was the man from Independence who gave the fighting tone to a meeting of Democratic leaders gathered here to map a money-raising drive to finance the coming campaign.

Truman drove here from his nearby home last night and urged a fighting campaign which he insisted would sweep the Democrats back into control of both the Senate and the House.

A few hours after the ex-President's pep talk, the Democrats upped their congressional campaign fund goal from $475,000 to $1 million. Stephen Mitchell, national party chairman, said people from the grassroots "believed our plans were too small."

"IT'S OBVIOUS these people mean business," Mitchell said. "There are elements present today for a massive victory in this campaign."

He said these elements were "disillusionment and bitterness about the present administration and a new and higher value that people have placed on the Democratic party in control of Congress."

Truman said he planned to take an active part in the campaign.

"I'll do as much as I can to elect a Democratic ticket, and whatever I can do I will do," he said.

Truman was the star of the gathering and Adlai Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, seemed pleased to step aside and let the spotlight play on the man who once was President.

There was a surprising vigor in Truman's step and in his voice. Once he bounced up from a chair with the old-time spring, but for the most part he seemed content to conserve his strength.

Stevenson left Kansas City for Omaha, Neb., without giving a hint as to his availability for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1956.

Stevenson said: "Even if I knew, I just don't believe I'd tell you. But I don't know myself."

Farm Bill Vote Set For Monday

Long Speeches Delaying Ballot;
Chance Of Compromise Ruled Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—A handful of votes was seen as the margin of victory today, whichever side wins, as the Senate headed toward a showdown vote Monday afternoon in the battle over farm price supports.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) predicted that "if all senators are present and voting I think the Senate will approve a flexible program of from 80 to 90 per cent of parity" on basic crops.

Aiken is chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee and supports the administration plan for flexible price props.

But Sen. Young (R-ND), signal-caller for a bipartisan group that favors an extension of rigid 90 per cent supports, offered to bet a reporter "a good steak dinner that we'll beat that."

A check of known positions of senators indicated the victory margin will be from two to four votes no matter who wins the first test.

AIKEN AND Majority Leader Knowland (R-Calif) had hoped for a key vote yesterday but the growing list of senators who want to make speeches soon scuttled that.

A unanimous consent agreement was then reached to limit debate and start voting Monday, leaving today open for more speechmaking.

Young avoided a claim that his group could defeat a flexible price range of from 82½ to 90 per cent of parity, as approved by the House and listed as satisfactory by the President.

That appeared an open invitation to Aiken to raise the floor of his proposal 2½ points from 80 to 82½ of parity. Parity is a farm goods price said by law to

$68 Million Kaiser Plants Set For East

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Two Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Co. aluminum fabricating plants, costing more than $68 million, will be constructed in the Ravenswood area, Rep. Neal (R-WVa) said yesterday.

The Huntington Republican made this announcement after conferring with Arthur S. Flemming, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization.

Neal said one of the plants, originally scheduled to be built in Kentucky but transferred to the Ohio Valley since it is a labor surplus area will cost an estimated $66 million.

The other plant will produce aluminum welded tubing and will cost $1,734,000, according to Neal. Neal said the certificate of necessity granted the Kaiser firm by the ODM to build the plants in Kentucky had been amended to direct construction in the Ravenswood area.

During construction, Neal said, 2,500 workers will be employed. After completed, 2,600 operational employees will be needed.

A month ago, it was reported that 2,581 acres of land had been optioned by a Ravenswood businessman at the request of the Baltimore and Ohio Railway.

In Oakland, Calif., officials of the Kaiser company would not comment on the announcement, but said the company would have a formal statement soon.

Ohio Bell Hearing To Resume Tuesday

COLUMBUS (AP)—The public hearing on Ohio Bell Telephone Co. bid for a rate boost of nearly $9 million has gone into recess until Tuesday.

Arnold Hirsch, Washington utilities expert, is expected to be the first witness on the stand Tuesday. He will testify for Cleveland, one of a group of cities protesting the increase.

Hirsch testified earlier in the hearing that he believed Ohio Bell should be made to cut rates.

Third Attack Proves Fatal To Emilie, 20

Autopsy Specialists' Report Verifies Data On Girl's Prior Health

MONTREAL (AP)—An epileptic stroke caused the death of Emilie Dionne, one of the famed quintuplets, Dr. Rosario Fontaine announced following an autopsy today.

Dr. Fontaine, Quebec's leading medico-legal expert, said the girl, who died after three strokes yesterday in St. Agathe, Que., had suffered from epilepsy for some time.

"The epileptic stroke was brought up by pulmonary congestion, particularly in the pituitary gland in the brain," the doctor said after a 1½ hour autopsy.

The autopsy was described as a formality necessary because of the prominence of the 20-year-old girl, and the fact no doctor was present when she died in St. Agathe Hostel, a home for old folks and retired Roman Catholic clergymen.

Dr. Fontaine completed the autopsy at 10:15 a. m. He immediately conferred with Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Girouard, elder sister and brother-in-law of Emilie and the other quintuplets.

HER BODY was removed under police escort 45 miles to the Montreal morgue for the autopsy.

The girl's grieving family went ahead with plans for funeral services and burial Monday near the Dionne home in Callander.

A dispute arose, meanwhile, over a surprise report that she had been "cured" of polio as a child.

An elder sister, Mrs. Maurice Girouard, who arrived to take charge of the body, said yesterday Emilie had polio 17 years ago and since then had been afflicted with epilepsy.

In Callander, a parish priest who acted as spokesman for her father, Oliva Dionne, said she had had a "weak spell" when she was 6. "It was never diagnosed," he added, "but polio is out."

Emilie, at birth the second smallest of the sisters, was known as the most carefree of the five

Opinions Vary On Time Probe May Require

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) predicted today the Senate will get a chance to vote before the November election on the issue of censuring Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

But Sen. Monroney (D-Okla) said he expects the intensified "political atmosphere" of the campaign for control of Congress to delay any such showdown until late in the year.

Yet the six senators who have been given the task of investigating the conduct of the Wisconsin senator agreed they can make their probe and report to the Senate in time for a vote before the election.

The rival forecasts underlined the wide-ranging differences of view on Capitol Hill as the special committee went into recess over the weekend.

Yesterday the bipartisan group picked Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) as chairman and decided to bar TV and radio from its hearings.

Monday the special committee gathers again behind closed doors to go over a list of 46 specific accusations leveled at McCarthy by Sens. Flanders (R-Vt), Fulbright (D-Ark) and Morse (Ind-Ore), with an eye to weeding out charges that overlap.

The special committee, composed of three Republicans and three Democrats, also will have to tackle some disputed points of procedure before it can get to the hearings stage. Still to be decided: Whether the hearings should be public and whether McCarthy should have the right to cross-examine witnesses as he has demanded.

Moscow Says U.S. Employs 100,000 Spies, Saboteurs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Moscow Radio says "the United States Intelligence Service" employs more than 100,000 "active spies and saboteurs."

And it passes these anti-spy tips on to Soviet citizens: Don't be chatty. Stay sober. Keep official documents where they belong—in the office.

This information on espionage went out over the air waves recently, beamed from Moscow in the Russian language to Soviet Far Eastern provinces. It was put out strictly for home consumption, but American listening posts picked it up and reported to Washington officials.

The broadcast almost sounds as if the Reds were trying to work up a spy scare deliberately to put the Russian people on guard against "agents, spies, saboteurs and murderers" for what the Kremlin calls U. S. imperialism.

OFFICIALLY it is devoted to two recent Russian booklets designed to inspire comrades everywhere to keep a sharp eye open for foes of the Communist state who may be lurking about in disguise.

As for specific hints on how to frustrate the spies, Moscow says: "To be vigilant means first of all to know how to keep party and state secrets. A chatty person is a real find for a spy."

"Foreign intelligence agents make a special point of finding people who like to have a drink because, as the saying goes, 'A drunken person says that which a sober person thinks of.'"

"It is much easier to steal from a drunken person the required document."

"Taking documents home for work is a direct crime; cases are known when documents were stolen from inattentive people on street cars and trains."

In Oakland, Calif., officials of the Kaiser company would not comment on the announcement, but said the company would have a formal statement soon.

HER BODY was removed under police escort 45 miles to the Montreal morgue for the autopsy.

The girl's grieving family went ahead with plans for funeral services and burial Monday near the Dionne home in Callander.

A dispute arose, meanwhile, over a surprise report that she had been "found with poison as a child."

An elder sister, Mrs. Maurice Girouard, who arrived to take charge of the body, said yesterday Emilie had polio 17 years ago and since then had been afflicted with epilepsy.

In Callander, a parish priest who acted as spokesman for her father, Oliva Dionne, said she had had a "weak spell" when she was 6. "It was never diagnosed," he added, "but polio is out."

Emilie, at birth the second smallest of the sisters, was known as the most carefree of the five

GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY — Says the testimony of Representative Martin Dies before the Jenner Committee reminds him of the many distorted accusations fired at American newspapers. And he goes on to review the strange ways of testimony and censorship, when somebody wants to grind his own axe. See the editorial page.

Sen. Jenner, Ex-Sergeant Trade Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The firing was hot and heavy when a couple of wartime Army men, former Capt. William E. Jenner and ex-Sgt. William P. Gandall, faced each other in a congressional hearing room yesterday.

Gandall accused Jenner, now chairman of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, of getting drunk and disorderly while in England during World War II.

Jenner promptly called Gandall a liar.

The Indiana Republican was trying to show at a committee hearing that the witness, Gandall, did writing and other work for the Army's information and education program despite a long connection with left-wing causes.

Gandall said one thing he did was try to improve morale at Marbury Hall Reception Center in England where he said, "guys were going on drunks."

"Including, he added, 'Jenner.' 'I had to pull him out of a pub', the witness recounted, in tones that would have carried across a parade ground.

"You know you are lying," Jenner said.

"Many a sergeant," Gandall told the senator, "saw you drunk and disorderly. We didn't call you the captain of the night for nothing."

Gandall, a 45-year-old New Yorker who gave his occupation as "publicist" and said he has been a union organizer and editor, denied being a Communist now but refused to say, on grounds of possible self-incrimination, whether he ever had been a Communist.

10 County Fairs Slated Next Week

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Auglaize County Fair at Wapakoneta opened today for a seven-day program, one of 10 fairs scheduled in Ohio in the coming week.

The Athens and Richland County fairs run from Aug. 11-14; the Champaign County Fair at Urbana opens Aug. 8 and will run through Aug. 13; the Clinton County Fair at Wilmington, Aug. 10-14; Gallia County Fair at Gallipolis, Aug. 12-14; Wood County Fair at Bowling Green, Aug. 9-14; the Attica Independent Fair at Attica, Aug. 11-14; and the Hartford Independent Fair at Croton Aug. 10-14.

New Legal Move Tried In Death Case

CLEVELAND (AP) — Defense attorneys planned another legal maneuver today in the fight to block a preliminary hearing of a first degree murder charge against Dr. Samuel Sheppard.

They said they would file an affidavit of prejudice against the man who ordered him jailed, Gershon Barber, Bay Village council president.

It was Barber, as acting mayor, who issued the warrant charging the young osteopath clubbed his 31-year-old wife Marilyn, to death in the bedroom of their Bay Village home July 4. Sheppard, 30, blames the attack on "a bushy-haired stranger."

Timothy F. McMahon, one of Sheppard's lawyers, said "from what I've read in the newspapers, the statements Barber has made clearly indicate his prejudice."

Originally Barber set the preliminary hearing for this afternoon. Later it was continued to next Monday. Unless both sides agree, it cannot be postponed any further. The purpose of the hearing is to decide whether there is enough evidence to hold Dr. Sheppard for the grand jury.

Detectives last night took a lengthy statement from a 20-year-old Cornell University medical student who described himself as an admirer of Sheppard. They did not report what they had learned from Gervase M. Flick, who had visited the doctor during the day.

But Flick, son of an osteopath at Bay View Hospital, where Sheppard practices, said he "gave them several leads."

$119,000 Reward Up On John Case

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German government offered a reward of $119,000 today for information that will clear up the strange disappearance of its former security chief, Dr. Otto John.

Government officials voiced hopes this huge reward would lure some East German Communist who knows the details of why John deserted the West.

John, who headed the Office for the Protection of the Constitution, the West German FBI, crossed over to East Berlin July 20.

The East Zone government says it had given the former security chief asylum at his request.

Woman Run Over By Greyhound

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Mrs. Louise Smith, 38, Phoenix, was run over by a greyhound and hospitalized. But her injuries were not believed to be serious.

The greyhound, however, wasn't a bus. It was a dog, a racing hound which Mrs. Smith was training. It was estimated the dog was traveling at 40 mph when it crashed into Mrs. Smith.

Henry County Eyes Conservation

COLUMBUS (AP) — Henry County wants to find out whether there is need for a soil conservation district in the county. The county has petitioned the Ohio Soil Conservation Committee which in the near future will set a date for a hearing on the question.

Ohio now has 84 county-wide soil conservation districts. If the committee approves the request, it will have a local sponsoring group conduct a referendum of landowners.

A district can be formed if 65 per cent of those voting favor one and if the state committee decides enough persons to express an opinion took part in the voting.

Kent Girl Arrested, Freed In Moscow

KENT (AP) — A Kent girl who has been arrested and released by the Soviet police, who confiscated her camera.

The U. S. State Department reported in Washington last night that an embassy translator, Miss Joyce Marshall, and Arthur Hasler, an assistant naval attaché, had been arrested in an unrestricted area near Moscow and held for about three hours.

Miss Barbara Marshall of Kent said the woman is her 26-year-old sister, who has been a State Department employee since 1951. They are daughters of Prof. and Mrs. Leon Marshall. Prof. Marshall teaches history at Kent State.

Ohio Bell Hearing To Resume Tuesday

COLUMBUS (AP) — The public hearing on Ohio Bell Telephone Co. bid for a rate boost of nearly $9 million has gone into recess until Tuesday.

Arnold Hirsch, Washington utilities expert, is expected to be the first witness on the stand Tuesday. He will testify for Cleveland, one of a group of cities protesting the increase.

Hirsch testified earlier in the hearing that he believed Ohio Bell should be made to cut rates.

Opinions Vary On Time Probe May Require

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) predicted today the Senate will get a chance to vote before the November election on the issue of censuring Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

But Sen. Monroney (D-Okla) said he expects the intensified "political atmosphere" of the campaign for control of Congress to delay any such showdown until late in the year.

Yet the six senators who have been given the task of investigating the conduct of the Wisconsin senator agreed they can make their probe and report to the Senate in time for a vote before the election.

The rival forecasts underlined the wide-ranging differences of view on Capitol Hill as the special committee went into recess over the weekend.

Yesterday the bipartisan group picked Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) as chairman and decided to bar TV and radio from its hearings.

Monday the special committee gathers again behind closed doors to go over a list of 46 specific accusations leveled at McCarthy by Sens. Flanders (R-Vt), Fulbright (D-Ark) and Morse (Ind-Ore), with an eye to weeding out charges that overlap.

The special committee, composed of three Republicans and three Democrats, also will have to tackle some disputed points of procedure before it can get to the hearings stage. Still to be decided: Whether the hearings should be public and whether McCarthy should have the right to cross-examine witnesses as he has demanded.

R. C. Palm Gets Important Farm Committee Post

Joins Two Others On Group That Aids Supervisor

Russell C. Palm, of Circleville Route 4, is the newly appointed member of the Pickaway County Farmers Home Administration committee, Cornell E. Copeland, the agency's county supervisor announced this week. The appointment became effective July 15.

Palm operates a general farm and manages the Pickaway Dairy Co-Op. The other two members of the 3-member committee are: David H. Bolender, of Circleville Route 4, and K. Ross Bidwell, of Orient Route 2. They are also farmers.

Each member is named for a 3-year term, and one appointment expires each year. No member completing a 3-year term can succeed himself. Every agricultural county in the country has such a committee to help the Farmers Home Administration county supervisor adapt the agency's loan policies to local conditions including farm credit needs.

The Farmers Home Administration makes loans to family-type farm operators to buy, improve, or operate efficient farms, or to construct or repair farm water facilities needed for profitable operation. Special livestock loans are made where temporary credit is needed to enable the operator to remain in operation.

THE AGENCY also makes emergency loans in counties that have been designated by the secretary of agriculture as areas where emergency credit is needed. However, the agency does not make loans of any type to any applicant whose needs can be handled by other credit sources.

Before any money can be borrowed through the agency, an applicant must have the approval of the county committee. In the case of a farm ownership loan, the farm to be purchased, enlarged or improved must also be approved by the committee, the county supervisor explained.

The county office serving Pickaway County is located at 119 1/2 S. Court St., Circleville. Office hours are 8 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., and 12:15 p. m. to 4:45 p. m. Monday through Friday.

Town To Honor Heroic Airman

WANTAGH, N. Y. (AP)—Grateful families will gather in the middle of a street here tomorrow to honor an Air Force jet pilot who died in order to spare them tragedy.

They will stand at the edge of a wide, jagged hole in Danver Road where Capt. William Weiland crashed last Monday.

Eyewitnesses said he skillfully guided the crippled jet into the deserted street, avoiding rows of neat bungalow homes on either side. Had he bailed out, the abandoned plane would have been a serious menace to this town.

John Jacob Astor Takes Third Wife

WASHINGTON (AP)—John Jacob Astor, 43-year-old millionaire, and his third wife were arranging their honeymoon trip today.

Astor, heavy-set heir to a fortune in Manhattan real estate, married blonde divorcee Mrs. Dolores Margaret Fullman at the home of an Arlington, Va., minister yesterday. Astor met his 26-year-old bride two months ago in Miami Beach.

Re: Article on persons cautioned by Game Warden to stop shooting Federal protected birds on S. Pickaway St.

I happen to live near the persons involved and I certainly appreciate their problem. No one can imagine the trouble these birds cause. Their droppings remove the grass from the yard and also the paint from cars and houses. The persons involved are not the type to slaughter any animal or bird.

They were merely hoping to scare the birds away by gunfire. It was unfortunate that some birds were killed trying to make the scare complete for the rest.

The persons that were so concerned about this matter that they contacted the game warden were not from this fair city and could not possibly know the problems in this area.

It is my suggestion that the persons from out of town find a way to take some of these birds with them.

I know the persons that have been plagued with them would be very happy.

I also suggest that the game warden find some way to rid the area of these birds. This is an off season, so he should have plenty of time.

Ohio Electric Chair Takes 298th Life

COLUMBUS (AP)—Samuel Brothers Nettles, 32, of Swanton, convicted slayer of a Toledo couple during a burglary, died last night in Ohio electric chair.

Nettles went quietly to the death chamber between a Roman Catholic priest and a Lutheran minister. He took a last puff on a cigarette and was strapped into the chair, was pronounced dead at 8:09 p. m., the 298th man to die in the Ohio chair.

He was convicted in Lucas County for the Aug. 31, 1953, slaying of William Pegler, 76, and his wife, Bertha, 65. An appeal to the Ohio Supreme Court was turned down, and Gov. Frank J. Lausche announced he could not intervene.

The Calendar Says Only August, But Christmas Toys Are Back!

Maybe for some people it seems only a few months ago they were taking down the Christmas lights at Court and Main. But already the same corner is beginning to show advance traces of the next Yuletide.

The firm of Harpster and Yost has started to set out its new toys for the 1954 Christmas season, and within another few weeks virtually all of its first stock will be on gala display. Many local youngsters, employees of the store say, have already been around to take a close look at the latest games and gadgets.

And a growing number of parents are adopting the idea of buying Christmas toys early.

"I guess it's because it makes it easier to pay for them," said Mrs. Wava Poling, in charge of the store's Christmas Toy Department. "More and more of them seem to be doing it. It's easier stretching the payments out on weekly installments."

3 Trustees Flee From Mansfield

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Three trustees at the Ohio Reformatory here stole keys from the reformatory florist today and escaped in his car.

The State Highway Patrol and reformatory officials sounded an alarm throughout the state for their capture.

Officials identified the escapees as Walter Clifton, 23, admitted April 12, 1954, from Lucas County to serve a 1-15 year sentence for burglary and larceny; Dana Glick, 22, admitted July 23, 1951, from Clinton County to serve a 3-30 year term for assault with intent to maim, and Robert Savage, 24, admitted Dec. 12, 1949, from Franklin County, to serve a 1-15 year term for burglary and grand larceny.

Reformatory officers said the trustees were working at the greenhouse when they grabbed Charles Wheatcraft, the florist, took his car keys and fled. Wheatcraft was not harmed.

Alliance Girl Wins Miss Ohio Crown

WOOSTER (AP)—For the third year in a row, the new Miss Ohio is the girl who entered the contest as Miss Denison. This year it is Barbara Quinlan.

Miss Quinlan is 20, lives in Alliance and is a student at Ohio State University. She is 5-feet-4, and has brown hair and brown eyes. A mezzo-soprano, she sang an aria from "Carmen" in the talent contest.

She will represent this state in the Miss America contest Labor Day weekend in Atlantic City.

Her prize for becoming Miss Ohio was $500, plus a trophy.

Famed City Of Sin Reduced To Virtually A Ghost Town

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP)—The gunman who murdered crime-fighter Albert L. Patterson on the fateful night of June 18 is still a wanted fugitive despite seven weeks of the greatest manhunt in Alabama history.

But the three shots fired into Patterson's body have exploded again and again in an unrelenting war on vice and racketeering that has made this storied city of sin a virtual ghost town.

The brightly lighted cafes and honky-tonks where carefree soldiers from nearby Ft. Benning, Ga., spent millions of dollars a year on gambling and other lurid frolics have been closed outright or put on short rations.

Their liquor and beer licenses have been suspended. Many of the gaudy night spots have been padlocked by raiding National Guardsmen who found hundreds of slot machines, lottery tickets, crooked dice, and telltale hypodermic needles and vials which gave evidence of narcotics traffic.

The troops have taken over all law enforcement functions in Phenix City and most of Russell County, stripping the civilian police of even the right to carry guns. That was done under limited martial law proclaimed by Gov. Gordon Persons.

Except for police duties, however, other civilian offices—including the courts—were left untouched by military rule.

In almost daily arrests, the steel-helmeted troops and reinforced squads of state highway patrolmen have brought more than 50 persons into custody, including two public officials, two deputy sheriffs and one of the reputed vice lords.

Other gambling big shots have been called in for questioning. Phenix City's Mayor Elmer Reese was arrested for wilful neglect of duty because of the gambling which went on.

Solicitor Arch Ferrell, the county's ousted criminal prosecutor, was jailed for drunkenness, fined $100 for drunk driving and his driver's license suspended.

Ferrell, who already had been relieved of duty, also is under indictment along with two others on charges of vote manipulation in an effort to defeat the anti-vice crusading Patterson in the June 1 Democratic primary runoff.

Patterson, promising to rid Phenix City of vice and lawlessness, was nominated for attorney general of Alabama but was assassinated before he could take office.

Indicted with Ferrell were the state's highest legal officer, Atty. Gen. Si Garrett, and Lamar Reid, chairman of the Birmingham Democratic Executive Committee, who resigned following the indictment.

Gambling czar Godwin Davis, another of those arrested in the mushrooming vice cleanup in Phenix City, spent six days in

Justice Refuses To Unbench Judge

COLUMBUS (AP)—Chief Justice Carl V. Weyand of the Ohio Supreme Court, says he will not unbench Common Pleas Judge Warren S. Earhart of Lawrence County in the divorce action of Nellie Pratt claimed Judge Earhart was prejudiced because a brother, J. Earl Pratt, now his counsel, is supporting the candidacy of Judge Earhart opponent in the November elections, Republican Roy Henry. Judge Earhart is a Democrat.

The chief justice observed that it would be "something new if a judge were unbenched because of what a lawyer in a case had said or done."

Tax Yield Noted

CINCINNATI (AP)—The city's 1 per cent payroll tax has yielded $3,497,704 to date. The tax started April 1 and is scheduled to end Oct. 31. City officials said they expect a total of $7 million.

Russia Lifting East German Bans

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia announced last night it was lifting economic and cultural controls over East Germany to strengthen the state's sovereign status.

The Soviet government said, however, it expected East Germany to keep in mind its obligations stemming from Four-Power agreements for peaceful and democratic development.

The Russians declared their recognition of East Germany as "fully sovereign" last March 25.

The State Department in Washington labeled the March 25 move granting "sovereignty" a phoney gesture.

Third Attack Proves Fatal To Emilie, 20

when they were youngsters. The girls celebrated their 20th birthdays together last May 28.

The four survivors, Yvonne, Marie, Cecile and Annette, as well as Emilie's parents and seven other brothers and sisters were deeply shocked at her death.

"It is a terrible blow to us all," the father said last night. "She was very dear to us."

"I had a letter from her only yesterday," he added, "and she didn't give any indication in it that she was about to be seriously ill. She hadn't been quite herself during recent months; that is one of the reasons why she went to Ste. Agathe to rest and where the air is good. But we were not prepared for anything like this."

About two months ago Emilie came to the Lac Brule Hotel, which the Oblate Sisters of Mary Immaculate operate.

NURSE CECILE Beliveau, who attended her during her last hours, said she had not been well during her stay, but was accepted as a prospective member of the Oblate order.

Emilie, wearing the dark habit of the order, was seen strolling about the hotel grounds Thursday evening. That night, because she had difficulty getting to sleep, a sister slept with her in a second cot in her austere room.

Two attacks within a few hours weakened her, nurse Beliveau said, and in the morning she refused her breakfast.

At 9 a. m. she appeared to be sleeping. The sister who had been at her bedside went to Mass, thinking the girl was no longer in danger.

Returning, the sisters discovered she had suffered her third stroke. They summoned Dr. Albert Joannette from Ste. Agathe. He pronounced her dead when he reached her bedside about 10:30 a. m.

Her father, in Callander, said the body will lie in the living room of the big Dionne house before the funeral. Mourners will be permitted to pay their respects, but curiosity seekers will not be admitted.

The funeral services will be at 9:30 a. m. Monday in the Sacred Heart of Jesus Church in nearby Corbeil, with Rev. W. H. LaFrance the parish priest, officiating.

Emilie will be buried beside her four grandparents in the tiny Corbeil Cemetery.

COLUMBUS (AP)—Chief Justice Carl V. Weyand of the Ohio Supreme Court, says he will not unbench Common Pleas Judge Warren S. Earhart of Lawrence County in the divorce action of Nellie Pratt claimed Judge Earhart was prejudiced because a brother, J. Earl Pratt, now his counsel, is supporting the candidacy of Judge Earhart opponent in the November elections, Republican Roy Henry. Judge Earhart is a Democrat.

The chief justice observed that it would be "something new if a judge were unbenched because of what a lawyer in a case had said or done."

Tax Yield Noted

CINCINNATI (AP)—The city's 1 per cent payroll tax has yielded $3,497,704 to date. The tax started April 1 and is scheduled to end Oct. 31. City officials said they expect a total of $7 million.

Russia Lifting East German Bans

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia announced last night it was lifting economic and cultural controls over East Germany to strengthen the state's sovereign status.

The Soviet government said, however, it expected East Germany to keep in mind its obligations stemming from Four-Power agreements for peaceful and democratic development.

The Russians declared their recognition of East Germany as "fully sovereign" last March 25.

The State Department in Washington labeled the March 25 move granting "sovereignty" a phoney gesture.

FAIRYLAND CLINIC TREATS SPASTIC CHILDREN WHILE THEY ENJOY TOYS DESIGNED TO GIVE THEM EXERCISE

By Central Press
MEADVILLE, Pa.—A children's clinic here has no equal in any part of the world.

Quietly opening its doors in January of this year to admit about 35 spastics, cerebral palsy and muscular dystrophy victims for clinical evaluation free of charge, the Niagara Research foundation announced its official opening for the public today to give them an opportunity to see what is being done here.

This center for handicapped children is unique in many respects. Children actually cry to get in. Moreover, they don't want to leave it.

Unusual? Not when you consider what awaits them here. Instead of the impersonal, bleak, hospital atmosphere, the doors of this center open up a veritable fairyland. Bright, gaily decorated rooms contain a painted background of childhood fantasies in beautiful color and wondrous toys to gladden the young in heart.

HERE is an airplane, big enough to seat an adventurous pilot. There is an impressive steamboat, which toots a whistle, plays Oh, Suzanna and lets out steam. A miniature train is ready to take on passengers. Mechanical hobby horses await eager riders. A colorful bridge has caged parakeets alongside of it.

Push a button and a cat's eyes light up. Another button is the sesame to Woody the Woodpecker. Dogs and cats chase over the walls, as comic mosquito characters hang from the ceiling, carrying the doctor's satchel.

All this is a treat, yet each unit gives a treatment. In each toy there is therapeutic equipment which exercises the muscles of the spastic, cerebral palsy and muscular dystrophy children who come here.

THE JET PLANE offers treatment of the lower extremities. The steamboat exercises knee joints and ankles. The hobby horse relaxes and strengthens the muscles of the legs and back. The bridge is a walking plane that teaches spastics to walk and help correct walking abnormalities.

An entirely new concept in treating disabled children, the equipment gives a maximum amount of muscle relaxation and stimulation with a minimum amount of fatigue.

This little fellow is having the time of his life "shootin' down the enemy" while the specially-designed toy jet plane strengthens his back and leg muscles via special equipment.

Another innovation is the "reward for effort" plan. It may be difficult to stand up and push a button, but when the cat's eyes light up as a result, the exertion is worth the effort. This is the theory behind manipulating all the toys here.

It all began when Owen K. Murphy, head of a medical equipment concern, grew more and more concerned about the lack of facilities for handicapped children of his community.

THERE WAS no special place to treat them. Traveling to nearby towns, the strange surroundings had a frightening aspect on the children, as well as the parents. When the patient had to be left there, the separation proved harmful to both.

When his good friend, Dr. Edward H. Connor, Meadville pediatrician, was suddenly struck down with multiple sclerosis in 1952, there was a long period of convalescence. O. K. Murphy and Dr. Connor spent many hours discussing the plight of these unfortunate youngsters.

Murphy confided his dreams and plans for a children's center to Dr. Connor and found in him a sympathetic listener. What's more, Dr. Connor offered to co-operate. Given five more years to work, Dr. Connor wanted to make every minute of it count.

THE CLINIC these two men envisioned was to be in Meadville and it would be unlike any other in the world, combining play, therapy and love. With Murphy providing all the needed funds, the Niagara Research foundation was born, with Dr. Connor as its director.

The children spend about two-and-a-half hours here daily, four to five days a week. A chauffeur, who loves children, calls for them at their home, takes them to the clinic, then home after treatment.

Movies taken of some of the patients upon admission and three months later, have shown a definite physical improvement in most cases. In all cases, their morale had greatly improved. The gratitude of the parents is hard to describe, as many "hopeless cases" acquired a new ray of hope.

That visitors and observers will be impressed at what has been accomplished at the Niagara Research foundation is a foregone conclusion.

However, O. K. Murphy and Dr. Connor are looking forward to more than community approval. They would like to see a "Fairyland Clinic" in every town in the United States.

Venus, Not Mars, May Be Best Bet For Finding Life in Solar System

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Correspondent

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Is Venus a more likely place to look for life on other planets than Mars, which currently holds top billing because it is one of its close swings toward the earth and is under the surveillance of an international committee of scientists?

Many astronomers around the world believe so, as the result of discoveries that the dense clouds which have frustrated first-hand looks at the surface of the planet ever since it was discovered are made of water vapor and much like our own storm clouds.

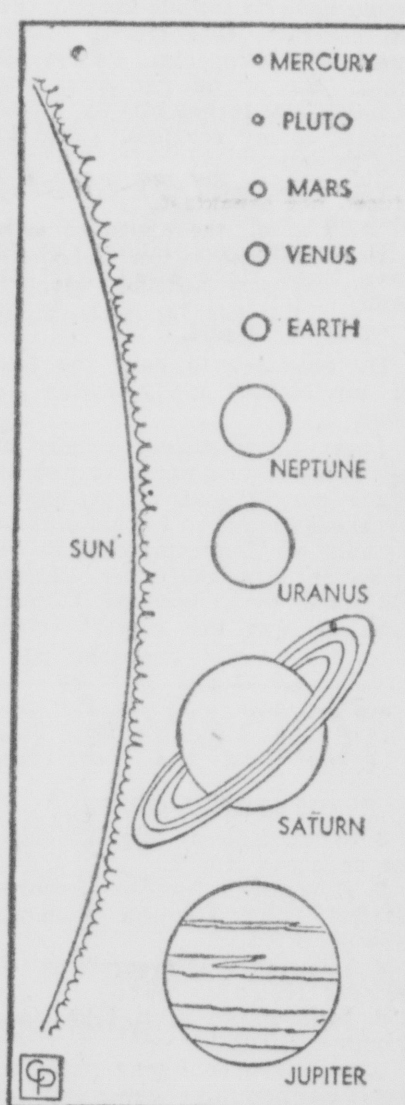

This indicates that Venus may be completely covered by oceans or even vast swamps. It might be in the evolutionary stage of development which the earth experienced when living things first crept ashore and the dinosaurs began their reign.

ASTRONOMERS Donald H. Menzel and Fred L. Whipple, both of Harvard, recently told the American Astronomical society meeting here at the University of Michigan, that their observations corroborate those of the late French astronomer Bernard Lyot which refuted earlier beliefs that Venus lacked water entirely.

Dr. William Sinton of Johns Hopkins university, using the great 200-inch Mount Palomar telescope, actually has measured the temperature of Venus' clouds as being 33 degrees below zero.

Prof. Nikolai Barabashov, a Russian astronomer, recently told a scientific meeting in London that he believes life will develop on Venus "any time now," if it has not already done so. He compared the stage of that planet's development with the Earth's 300 million years ago.

AT THE SAME TIME, Dean B. Laughlin, Michigan astronomy professor, has predicted that the first space travelers to reach the planet Mars will find a lifeless world and that current observations of the red planet probably will be disappointing insofar as establishing evidence of life there is concerned. Venus is a better bet.

Comparative sizes of the Sun and its family of planets.

Mars' famous markings, which have stirred speculation that they are canals made by intelligent beings, and its dark areas which become greener in summer and therefore suggest vegetation, really are drifts of volcanic ash, Professor McLaughlin believes.

He points out that in the dry, oxygen-poor atmosphere of Mars, volcanic ash should be green rather than brown as on earth. But he does not discount the possibility that life such as that existing on the Earth may arrive there eventually.

"The conditions on Mars correspond to an early stage in the Earth's development, so that it may possibly be one on which oceans have yet to form, and on which life is still to appear," says Prof. McLaughlin.

SCIENTISTS are hotter on the trail of life elsewhere in the universe than ever before. Dr. Harold C. Urey, Nobel-prize-winning atomic scientist at the University of Chicago, estimates that there are a trillion worlds in the known universe on which it is possible that life might have originated and survived.

He points out that "at some starting point in the two-or-three billion-year history of the earth, there was no oxygen here," and that the seas were 400 feet deeper than they are now, which suggests conditions such as those believed to exist now on Venus.

Venus has more in common with the Earth than any other planet, and the astronomers point out that it logically would have occupied the place that Mars has captured in the imagination of people wondering about life elsewhere in the solar system if those "canals" had not been spotted on Mars and if Venus were not always having cloudy weather.

YET THIS LAST circumstance is one of the best guarantees that a visitor to Venus from the Earth might feel more at home there than anywhere else in the solar system, including the arid moon.

Venus is the most brilliant planet in the heavens, and currently is the morning star. Whereas Mars is "only" 40 million miles away and by 1956 will be five million miles closer, Venus really is a close neighbor, only 26 million miles away.

Its orbit is inside ours and closer to the sun, so that surface temperatures may be higher than those of its clouds. Sometimes it is so brilliant that it may be seen with the naked eye in daytime.

Venus' diameter is about 7,700 miles, almost equaling the Earth's; objects there weigh about 85 per cent as much as on the Earth, and its year is equal to 225 of our days. So, before booking passage for a rocket trip to Mars or the Moon, don't discount Venus, say the astronomers.

Assistant Minister Delivers Sermon, 'Men Of Boldness'

The assistant pastor of the First Methodist Church Harold Himes, will preach this Sunday at both the 8:30 a. m. and the 10:30 a. m. services on the subject, "Men Of Boldness."

The sermon will be based on the boldness of Peter and John as recorded in the fourth chapter of the Acts of the Apostles.

For the prelude Mrs. Ervin Leist, organist, will play, "Andantino" by Haydn; and for the offertory she will play, "Supplication," by Asper.

A trio of Mrs. Larry Graham, soprano, Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, alto and Charles Kirkpatrick, baritone, will sing, "How Long Wilt Thou Forget Me," by Pfleger.

The Rev. Charles Reed will be in Belpe, this Sunday to perform the marriage service of a young man who entered the ministry when The Rev. Mr. Reed was his minister.

Westminsters Hold Sunday Services

Services at the Presbyterian church will be held by the Westminster Foundation in the absence of the Rev. Donald Mitchell.

Becky Dountz will preside at the services. Larry Thornton candidate to the ministry, will deliver the devotional address.

Linda Given will be at the organ. Hal Spencer will be the sponsoring elder for the week.

First EUB Church Hears Rev. Wilson Delivering Sermon

"Spiritual Permanency" is the sermon topic to be delivered to the First Evangelical United Brethren congregation Sunday.

The Rev. Carl L. Wilson has taken his sermon from Hebrews 12:28. "Chansonette," by Richolson will be the prelude with the offertory "Vision," by Peery. Stephen Foster's "Blessed Assurance" is the anthem and "Jubilate Deo," by Serigsson, as the postlude.

Congregational hymns include, "Higher Ground" and "My Hope Is Built On Nothing Less." Montford Kirkwood Jr. will lead the church choir in "Holy, Holy, Holy" as the processional hymn. The recessional hymn will be, "Lead On, O King Eternal."

Miss Lucille Kirkwood is the organist.

Calvary EUB Holds Unified Program Of Worship, Study

The unified program of worship and Bible study of the Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church will begin Sunday morning at 9 a. m.

During the worship hour the Rev. James B. Recob, pastor of the Calvary Church, will speak on the topic, "Principles for Right Living."

His message will be based upon passages of Scripture taken from the sixth and tenth chapters of I Corinthians.

A unified program of worship and study is also conducted for the children of the church beginning each Sunday morning at 9 a. m. This program is conducted in the church annex. Mrs. W. C. Shasteen, children's director, is in charge of the children's program each Sunday morning.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Is Venus a more likely place to look for life on other planets than Mars, which currently holds top billing because it is on one of its close swings toward the earth and is under the surveillance of an international committee of scientists?

Many astronomers around the world believe so, as the result of discoveries that the dense clouds which have frustrated first-hand looks at the surface of the planet ever since it was discovered are made of water vapor and much like our own storm clouds.

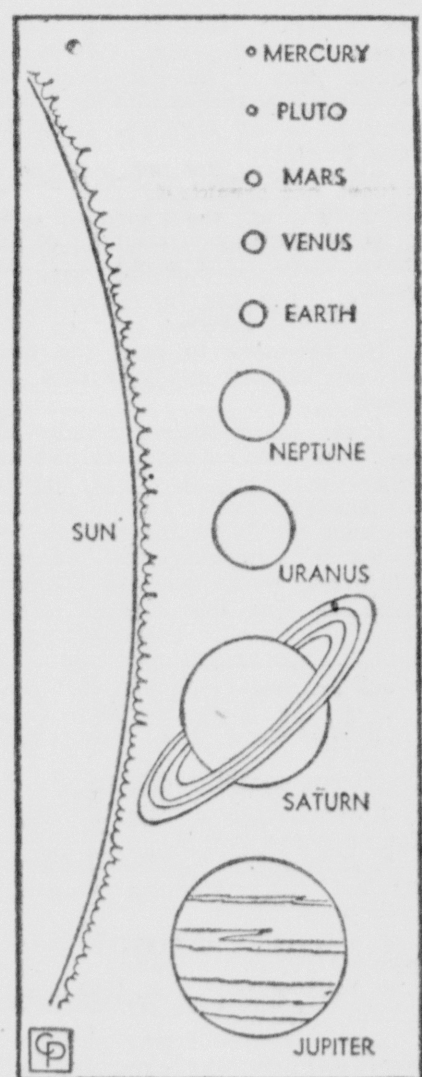

This indicates that Venus may be completely covered by oceans or even vast swamps. It might be in the evolutionary stage of development which the earth experienced when living things first crept ashore and the dinosaurs began their reign.

ASTRONOMERS Donald H. Menzel and Fred L. Whipple, both of Harvard, recently told the American Astronomical society meeting here at the University of Michigan, that their observations corroborate those of the late French astronomer Bernard Lyot which refuted earlier beliefs that Venus lacked water entirely.

Dr. William Sinton of Johns Hopkins university, using the great 200-inch Mount Palomar telescope, actually has measured the temperature of Venus' clouds as being 38 degrees below zero.

Prof. Nikolai Barabashov, a Russian astronomer, recently told a scientific meeting in London that he believes life will develop on Venus "any time now," if it has not already done so. He compared the stage of that planet's development with the Earth's 300 million years ago.

AT THE SAME TIME, Dean B. Laughlin, Michigan astronomy professor, has predicted that the first space travelers to reach the planet Mars will find a lifeless world and that current observations of the red planet probably will be disappointing insofar as establishing evidence of life there is concerned. Venus is a better bet.

Comparative sizes of the Sun and its family of planets.

Mars' famous markings, which have stirred speculation that they are canals made by intelligent beings, and its dark areas which become greener in summer and therefore suggest vegetation, really are drifts of volcanic ash, Professor McLaughlin believes.

He points out that in the dry, oxygen-poor atmosphere of Mars, volcanic ash should be green rather than brown as on earth. But he does not discount the possibility that life such as that existing on the Earth may arrive there eventually.

"The conditions on Mars correspond to an early stage in the Earth's development, so that it may possibly be one on which oceans have yet to form, and on which life is still to appear," says Prof. McLaughlin.

SCIENTISTS are hotter on the trail of life elsewhere in the universe than ever before. Dr. Harold C. Urey, Nobel-prize-winning atomic scientist at the University of Chicago, estimates that there are a trillion worlds in the known universe on which it is possible that life might have originated and survived.

He points out that "at some starting point in the two-or-three billion-year history of the earth, there was no oxygen here," and that the seas were 400 feet deeper than they are now, which suggests conditions such as those believed to exist now on Venus.

Venus has more in common with the Earth than any other planet, and the astronomers point out that it logically would have occupied the place that Mars has captured in the imagination of people wondering about life elsewhere in the solar system if those "canals" had not been spotted on Mars and if Venus were not always having cloudy weather.

YET THIS LAST circumstance is one of the best guarantees that a visitor to Venus from the Earth might feel more at home there than anywhere else in the solar system, including the arid moon.

Venus is the most brilliant planet in the heavens, and currently is the morning star. Whereas Mars is "only" 40 million miles away and by 1956 will be five million miles closer, Venus really is a close neighbor, only 26 million miles away.

Its orbit is inside ours and closer to the sun, so that surface temperatures may be higher than those of its clouds. Sometimes it is so brilliant that it may be seen with the naked eye in daytime.

Venus' diameter is about 7,700 miles, almost equaling the Earth's; objects there weigh about 85 per cent as much as on the Earth, and its year is equal to 225 of our days. So, before booking passage for a rocket trip to Mars or the Moon, don't discount Venus, say the astronomers.

Assistant Minister Delivers Sermon, 'Men Of Boldness'

The assistant pastor of the First Methodist Church Harold Himes, will preach this Sunday at both the 8:30 a. m. and the 10:30 a. m. services on the subject, "Men Of Boldness."

The sermon will be based on the boldness of Peter and John as recorded in the fourth chapter of the Acts of the Apostles.

For the prelude Mrs. Ervin Leist, organist, will play, "Andantino" by Haydn; and for the offertory she will play, "Supplication," by Asper.

A trio of Mrs. Larry Graham, soprano, Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, alto and Charles Kirkpatrick, baritone, will sing, "How Long Wilt Thou Forget Me," by Pfeiffer.

The Rev. Charles Reed will be in Belpre, this Sunday to perform the marriage service of a young man who entered the ministry when the Rev. Mr. Reed was his minister.

Westminsters Hold Sunday Services

Services at the Presbyterian church will be held by the Westminster Foundation in the absence of the Rev. Donald Mitchell.

Becky Dountz will preside at the services. Larry Thornton candidate to the ministry, will deliver the devotional address.

Linda Given will be at the organ. Hal Spencer will be the sponsoring elder for the week.

First EUB Church Hears Rev. Wilson Delivering Sermon

"Spiritual Permanency" is the sermon topic to be delivered to the First Evangelical United Brethren congregation Sunday.

The Rev. Carl L. Wilson has taken his sermon from Hebrews 12:28. "Chansonette," by Richolson will be the prelude with the offertory "Vision," by Peery. Stephen Foster's "Blessed Assurance" is the anthem and "Jubilate Deo," by Sergison, as the postlude.

Congregational hymns include, "Higher Ground" and "My Hope Is Built On Nothing Less." Montford Kirkwood Jr. will lead the church choir in "Holy, Holy, Holy" as the processional hymn. The recessional hymn will be, "Lead On, O King Eternal."

Miss Lucille Kirkwood is the organist.

Calvary EUB Holds Unified Program Of Worship, Study

The unified program of worship and Bible study of the Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church will begin Sunday morning at 9 a. m.

During the worship hour the Rev. James B. Recob, pastor of the Calvary Church, will speak on the topic, "Principles for Right Living." His message will be based upon passages of Scripture taken from the sixth and tenth chapters of I Corinthians.

A unified program of worship and study is also conducted for the children of the church beginning each Sunday morning at 9 a. m. This program is conducted in the church annex Mrs. W. C. Shasteen, children's director, is in charge of the children's program each Sunday morning.

Baptists Continue Revival Services Through Aug. 13

Revival services of the First Baptist Chapel will continue through Aug. 13.

After Sunday services, activities scheduled for later in the week by Trinity Lutheran Church are as follows: Tuesday at 7 p. m., Junior Choir rehearsal, and at 7:30 p. m., Church Council meeting; Wednesday at 9 a. m., Children's Choir rehearsal, and at 7:30 p. m., Ladies Missionary Society meeting in the parish house; Thursday at 7:30 p. m., Brotherhood meeting. Corn roast and watermelon feed at Noah List farm.

Mary Circle of the First Evangelical United Brethren Church will meet at the Service Center at 8 p. m. Monday. The same evening at Ted Lewis Park, Rebecca Church will meet for a family picnic, starting at 6:30 p. m. Also on Monday, Ruth Circle will meet at the home of Mrs. Leroy Thomas at 8 p. m.

The Brotherhood of the First EUB Church will hold a family picnic at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Children's Home.

Fidelis Chorus of the First EUB Church will hold rehearsal Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. Prayer and Bible Study at the church that evening will be at 7:30 p. m. Church Choir rehearsal is scheduled for 8:30 p. m.

Trinity Lutherans To Hear Beginning Of Sermon Series

A series of three sermons on the theme, "What Jesus Says" will be started Sunday at Trinity Lutheran church.

The Rev. Carl G. Zehner will begin the sermon at both the 8:30 a. m. and 10:45 a. m. services. Sunday, the theme will be, "Concerning Excuses," from the text Luke 14:16-24.

Also at both services, Gerald Nehrenhausen will be installed as student pastor.

On following Sundays, the themes will be, "Concerning Rewards" and "Concerning Cost Accounting". Sunday school will follow the early service at 9:30 a. m.

Wheaton, of Florida; and Charles Warford, of Kentucky.

The Sunday services will remain the same. Sunday school is at 10 a. m.; worship services at 11 a. m.; B. T. U. at 7:30 p. m.; and another worship at 8:15 p. m. The public is invited.

BOUNCING ALONG
OCCASIONALLY actuality overtakes some of man's metaphorical expressions. Everybody is familiar with the world picture of a car bouncing down a country road. Now comes an industrial development to give those jounces grounding in literal fact: Roads made of rubber.

Yes, the scientists have evolved a method of mixing tar and synthetic rubber to create a reasonably well wearing surface that has the added attribute of being inexpensive—using the term in its modern sense, of course. Small stones are crushed into the mixture, resulting in what engineers claim is a completely skid-proof road.

Rubber-tar paving has proved particularly successful, it is reported, in building airfield surfaces that are subjected to traffic by jet aircraft. Spilled jet fuel, it was found, dissolves asphalt but doesn't affect the tar-and-rubber mixture.

Rubber roads have been laid down in Connecticut and Massachusetts, and 15 other states have put down test installations. Will the day come when all roads are made of rubber? If so, comfortable riding will have an entirely new meaning.

NOT CHEAPER
HOW POWERFUL anti-private enterprise forces have become in the United States was demonstrated by opposition in the Senate to proposal of the administration that private industry construct a $107 million steam plant near Memphis under contract to supply 600,000 kilowatts of electric energy to the Tennessee Valley Authority.

A similar amount of energy is supplied by TVA to the government's atomic plants in the region. Additional generating capacity is necessary because TVA is now operating near capacity.

But the exponents of government power give up hard. They rely heavily in their arguments on the old canard that the government can make electricity cheaper than it can be produced by private owners.

This concept is false because it ignores the factor that when the government doesn't pay taxes on a business operation in which it engages, higher taxes must be paid by other taxpayers. And when a government project operates at a deficit, taxpayers make it good.

No citizen of Kansas is suggesting giving the drought-stricken state back to the Indians, as it is feared they might vote against price supports.

A "thinking machine" is attracting publicity. But is it equipped with hindsight?

The Russians are reported to have bungled their farm program. Here Washington is striving valiantly to aid farmers whose crops have been ruined by drought while buying up $6 billion worth of unneeded crops.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

In the 1952 campaign, the Democrats made a great to-do about the One Party Press. Of course, there is no such thing in this country. American newspapers have been called all sorts of names from the "Uptown Daily Worker" to the "Wall Street Kept Press," but the truth is not in such phrases. In fact, even inside the pages of each newspaper that is not strictly propagandistic, there are great differences in the presentation and interpretation of identical facts.

What brings this up is the testimony of Representative Martin Dies before the Jenner Committee. Dies is describing the hoax put over by some Left Wing reporters that Dr. J. B. Matthews testified before the old Dies Committee, nearly 20 years ago, that Shirley Temple was a Communist. Matthews did no such thing. He had actually said that a message appeared in "Ce Soir" in Paris which bore many names, none of which was related to a Communist, and that among them was the name of Shirley Temple. Matthews had used that as an example of how the Communists abuse innocent people.

Dies was incensed. And here is his story of what happened on radio:

"Immediately I asked for time on the radio. NBC wouldn't let me have the time. They told me frankly they were afraid of executive influence. Columbia wouldn't let me have the time."

"... Then I got the time at Mutual, but Mutual weakened at the last moment and finally said to me, 'You have got to submit your manuscript because Michelson has insisted that we let Paul Anderson follow you on the radio, and he is speaking for the White House and the White House wants you to surrender your manuscript to Paul Anderson.'"

"I said, 'I am not going to do it.' I said, 'I said, 'I am not going to do it.' I said, 'I have been attacked all over the country. I am entitled to go on the air and I am not going to submit the manuscript.'"

"For a time it looked as though I would not be permitted to go on the air. Finally I did go on the air, and I just simply read the testimony, the transcript, to show the people that it (the Shirley Temple story) was not true."

The radio industry ought to take this testimony seriously because it is a direct accusation that radio connives at accepting censorship. Here is sworn testimony which is either true or Martin Dies has committed perjury. I was recently told that one of the most prominent nation-wide commentators lost a great many local outlets because he "told the truth," as his friends put it, about the McCarthy hearings.

Rightist commentators have difficulty finding sponsors, although Rightist columnists have, in the aggregate, more newspapers than the Left Wing columnists. If they do so well in the newspapers, why do they have so much trouble getting sponsors on radio?

If Charles Michelson, who was Roosevelt's press agent, could require a radio network to submit a Congressman's manuscript to an antagonistic newspaperman, is it possible that similar operations are in practice today? Does that explain the difficulties of Right Wing commentators on radio and television? They are regarded as controversial, but the Left Wingers are not controversial. How come?

Precautions Can Lessen Swimming Accidents

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WE humans are accident-prone at all times, particularly if we are inclined to be careless, but the summer months seem to accent this unhappy fact. Simple precaution could do much to help this situation.

Individuals who go swimming should do so only after sufficient time, usually an hour, has elapsed after eating, especially if the meal is heavy.

Swimming should be avoided in unguarded areas, unless an expert swimmer is present. Needless to say, children should not be allowed to go swimming unless they are under the supervision of an adult.

Drowning itself is due to obstruction of the respiratory tract by a spasm of the voice box or larynx. Usually only small amounts of water enter the lungs, but the spasm caused by the water in the larynx stops the breathing.

The pulmotor and artificial respiration can often be life-savers for the drowning victim. However, the greatest protection against drowning is still its prevention by the use of adequate care.

Diving Accidents

Another frequent water accident occurs when swimmers dive from unfamiliar piers or diving boards. Many cases of fractured neck occur every year because the water may be shallow in these places. Death or paralysis from the neck down are the results of this type of carelessness.

An ounce of prevention could prevent so much sorrow from these summertime accidents.

The Taming of Carney Wilde

Copyright, 1954, by Bart Spicer. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

SYNOPSIS

When Charles Alexander Stewart abandoned with funds from a bank in Philadelphia, he placed Carney Wilde, a sleuthing career in jeopardy. Wilde was responsible for the security police of the bank. It was up to him, now, to find the thief who had disappeared after killing a policeman in the course of his flight. Wilde's troubles mount when his girl, Jane Grodnick, elopes with his friend, Penn Maxwell. Jane's father, Captain Grodnick of the local police, is as displeased with the match as is Carney, but they good-naturedly bow to the girl's choice. A slim clue, a mere scrap of paper, sends Wilde on his way to New Orleans aboard a river boat making a luxury cruise to the Mardi Gras.

CHAPTER FIVE

THE VALET had left my bag open on the luggage rack at the foot of the bed and I could see a manila folder sticking out from under a stack of shirts. I picked it up as I went by and then sat on the bed.

The folder held my office reports for the month of January. Without looking, I knew just about what the amounts would be. The fixed charges didn't vary. The office rent was the same; salaries fluctuated a trifle, but they averaged $1,500 a week for the 12 operatives I had working for Carney Wilde, Inc. Expense sheets could zoom and fall like a roller coaster. In January they had been modest; almost all the work had been routine. Profit was a little more than average last month. Usually I took $200 a week as a salary and planned on having another $1,000 worth a month to put in the bank. January gave me $1,300.

I had something more than $8,000 in my personal account at the Land Title, counting January's take. And Carney Wilde, Inc., had more than $5,000. Most of that came from working for the Department Store association. By June, when the contract expired, I should have another $6,000 in the bank, give or take a little. Nineteen thousand. If I lost the contract and tried to keep my staff together, I could stay in business for eight or nine months. But if I lost the contract I'd be finished as a private detective and I might as well close up the same day, because no one else would want to hire me for a really profitable job.

Worse than goofing off, I'd become a joke, nothing to be taken seriously.

Getting Stewart was the only answer. If I brought him in, I would have no trouble keeping the big contract. If I merely had a hand in finding him, I'd be all right. But if he got away, or someone else turned him up, I was finished in my business. I had to find Stewart.

The valet came with my heavy coat and a suit jacket. "I thought you might like to have these right away, sir," he said.

"Thanks," I said.

He promised to have the rest of my clothes ready within an hour.

I sat there staring blindly at my overcoat and began to plot an office budget that might reduce expenses enough so I could operate without the Department Store association account. After all, old Eli Jonas would keep on, I knew. And he was the biggest single item in the profit column. Old Eli would...

I sat up and searched my pockets for a cigar. Old Eli would keep me on. Sure he would. He'd look up at me silently and ruffle up that fringe of bushy white hair and then he'd insist I stay on as his security officer. And he wouldn't even mention that it was his bank that Stewart had robbed. At least he'd never mention it to me. But the knowledge would always be there and just thinking about it would be enough. No matter what happened, I knew I'd never be able to work for Eli Jonas, nor even want to be around him, unless I could find Stewart and bring him in.

The boat lay at the dock. Thin winter sunlight glinted from the white paint and polished bridge-work. Up forward a gold-bordered flag fluttered from the jackstaff and hundreds of gay pennants danced along guy wires and naidars. My taxi halted with the door an inch from the covered gangplank. Two husky boys came out and took my luggage.

The lower deck was shielded with heavy glass. I pushed open a double door and stepped down carefully to the deck. That brought me level with a pleasant young officer seated at a small table. He wore a blue cap pushed back on his blond hair. Silver badge on it said, "Assistant Purser."

"Your ticket, sir?"

"Reservation," I said. "The name is Wilde." I put my gloved fingers into my mouth, slipped the glove and fished in my pocket for an envelope that held my reservation statement and $750 in cash. I dropped the envelope on the table and put my glove in my pocket.

"Mr. Wilde. Yes, sir." The young officer ticked off my name on a list, swiftly counted my money and dropped it in a drawer. "Bedroom seven, Mr. Wilde," he said. He tapped a bell and told one of the roustabouts where to take my bag. "Just follow the boy, if you will, sir."

The assistant purser walked beside me toward a huge mahogany double-stairway that curved to the upper decks. "Would you please stop in the purser's office when you've found your room, Mr. Wilde?" He spoke only for my ear. "The boy will take you there, Mr. Wilde," he said. "The purser is expecting you."

The kid with my bag led me up two flights and then down a long corridor. The halls were jammed with people, excitedly inspecting the boat, shrieking gay holiday noises.

"Go go all the way back, sir," he grinned over his shoulder. "Right over the paddle-wheel."

My room was dim and warm. The boy swept back the drapes on the windows and gave me a fine view of a wide promenade deck beyond. I sat down on the soft double bed and slid my overcoat off my shoulders.

"Air conditioning, too," he said. "Set the temperature to suit yourself. Only the fancy bedrooms are air conditioned."

"That's fine." I sifted through a pocketful of change, found two

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

By Ray Tucker

Editor's Note: This article, the sixth in a series by Ray Tucker from Egypt, replaces his usual Saturday answers to readers' questions.

CAIRO—Former King Farouk of Egypt, who excelled Marc Anthony as the great lover boy of the Nile, is undoubtedly the most hated and despised ruler of all history's deposed monarchs. He ranks below Hitler and Mussolini, in Egyptian opinion, because they at least did something, good and bad.

In a land depressed by too much poverty, too much sun and too much desert, he did nothing but nightclub on a scale that would stagger even New York.

The 110 newspapermen from eighteen countries, invited here to attend the second anniversary of Egypt's military revolution and Farouk's overthrow, have visited and eaten in several of the former king's palaces and harem headquarters. The harems are now empty, for his girl friends have gone underground. They are as unpopular as he is. When they were the palace favorites, they used ruthlessly what power they had.

PALACES—Farouk had about 50 palaces, desert and Mediterranean resorts and private clubs for himself, his family, his friends and his harem. We visited the Chalet des Pyramids, a mile from those ancient piles, the Sphinx and the newly discovered funerary ship. The Chalet is exquisite.

All around lies the bare and monotonous desert. But within the walls of the chalet and grounds, it is a paradise of grass, trees, flowers and fountains. The antique furniture would grace the Metropolitan or Mellon Art Galleries at New York and Washington, respectively.

His chess board and pieces cost $10,000, and are preserved under glass. When asked the reason for keeping these Farouk extravaganzas on public display, a high official explained that it was designed "to remind the people of his sinful excesses."

AUSTERITY—The home Nabu-Nasser regime practices almost puritanical discipline. No liquor is served at official functions, and some of the most exotic entertainment places have been closed. A wealthy Egyptian said, "I have to go to Boston now for a good time." The royal palaces have been converted into schools, social and recreation centers and museums.

The new government has taken over all of Farouk's physical property that it could seize, including his collections of stamps, coins and pornographic pictures. They are reported to be the most valuable in the world. It is said, however, that he salted away at least $70 million in Swiss and U. S. A. banks before the army junta ran him out on a yacht.

President Naguib, incidentally, is still only a figurehead, with Colonel Nasser as the real power. At great mass meetings, such as we attended, Naguib speaks first and Nasser after him. Nasser gets the longest cheers.

NAGUIB ABSENT—At a press conference for the 110 foreign correspondents, Naguib did not even appear to report on the revolution's two-year record. Nasser and his young military aides, though now serving in civilian functions, parried or answered questions. But Nasser managed the affair with an aplomb and bonhomie equalling F.D.R.'s manipulation of similar publicity opportunities.

Many foreign observers, however, are still keeping their fingers crossed on the permanent and democratic value of the Egyptian revolution of July, 1952. The boys who tossed out the last of the pharaohs are a headstrong group.

BOUNCING ALONG

OCCASIONALLY actuality overtakes some of man's metaphorical expressions. Everybody is familiar with the world picture of a car bouncing down a country road. Now comes an industrial development to give those jounces grounding in literal fact: Roads made of rubber.

Yes, the scientists have evolved a method of mixing tar and synthetic rubber to create a reasonably well wearing surface that has the added attribute of being inexpensive—using the term in its modern sense, of course. Small stones are crushed into the mixture, resulting in what engineers claim is a completely skid-proof road.

Rubber-tar paving has proved particularly successful, it is reported, in building airfield surfaces that are subjected to traffic by jet aircraft. Spilled jet fuel, it was found, dissolves asphalt but doesn't affect the tar-and-rubber mixture.

Rubber roads have been laid down in Connecticut and Massachusetts, and 15 other states have put down test installations. Will the day come when all roads are made of rubber? If so, comfortable riding will have an entirely new meaning.

NOT CHEAPER

HOW POWERFUL anti-private enterprise forces have become in the United States was demonstrated by opposition in the Senate to proposal of the administration that private industry construct a $107 million steam plant near Memphis under contract to supply 600,000 kilowatts of electric energy to the Tennessee Valley Authority.

A similar amount of energy is supplied by TVA to the government's atomic plants in the region. Additional generating capacity is necessary because TVA is now operating near capacity.

But the exponents of government power give up hard. They rely heavily in their arguments on the old canard that the government can make electricity cheaper than it can be produced by private owners.

This concept is false because it ignores the factor that when the government doesn't pay taxes on a business operation in which it engages, higher taxes must be paid by other taxpayers. And when a government project operates at a deficit, taxpayers make it good.

No citizen of Kansas is suggesting giving the drought-stricken state back to the Indians, as it is feared they might vote against price supports.

A "thinking machine" is attracting publicity. But is it equipped with hindsight?

The Russians are reported to have bungled their farm program. Here Washington is striving valiantly to aid farmers whose crops have been ruined by drought while buying up $6 billion worth of unneeded crops.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

In the 1952 campaign, the Democrats made a great to-do about the One Party Press. Of course, there is no such thing in this country. American newspapers have been called all sorts of names from the "Uptown Daily Worker" to the "Wall Street Kept Press," but the truth is not in such phrases. In fact, even inside the pages of each newspaper that is not strictly propagandistic, there are great differences in the presentation and interpretation of identical facts.

What brings this up is the testimony of Representative Martin Dies before the Jenner Committee. Dies is describing the hoax put over by some Left Wing reporters that Dr. J. B. Matthews testified before the old Dies Committee, nearly 20 years ago, that Shirley Temple was a Communist. Matthews did no such thing. He had actually said that a message appeared in "Ce Soir" in Paris which bore many names, none of which was related to a Communist, and that among them was the name of Shirley Temple. Matthews had used that as an example of how the Communists abuse innocent people.

Dies was incensed. And here is his story of what happened on radio:

"Immediately I asked for time on the radio. NBC wouldn't let me have the time. They told me frankly they were afraid of executive influence. Columbia wouldn't let me have the time."

"...Then I got the time at Mutual, but Mutual weakened at the last moment and finally said to me, 'You have got to submit your manuscript because Michelson has insisted that we let Paul Anderson follow you on the radio, and he is speaking for the White House and the White House wants you to surrender your manuscript to Paul Anderson'."

"I said, 'I am not going to do it.' I said, 'I said, 'I am not going to do it.' I said, 'I have been attacked all over the country. I am entitled to go on the air and I am not going to submit the manuscript.'"

"For a time it looked as though I would not be permitted to go on the air. Finally I did go on the air, and I just simply read the testimony, the transcript, to show the people that it (the Shirley Temple story) was not true."

The radio industry ought to take this testimony seriously because it is a direct accusation that radio connives at accepting censorship. Here is sworn testimony which is either true or Martin Dies has committed perjury. I was recently told that one of the most prominent nation-wide commentators lost a great many local outlets because he "told the truth," as his friends put it, about the McCarthy hearings.

Rightist commentators have difficulty finding sponsors, although Rightist columnists have, in the aggregate, more newspapers than the Left Wing columnists. If they do so well in the newspapers, why do they have so much trouble getting sponsors on radio?

If Charles Michelson, who was Roosevelt's press agent, could require a radio network to submit a Congressman's manuscript to an antagonistic newspaperman, is it possible that similar operations are in practice today? Does that explain the difficulties of Right Wing commentators on radio and television? They are regarded as controversial, but the Left Wingers are not controversial. How come?

Precautions Can Lessen Swimming Accidents

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WE humans are accident-prone at all times, particularly if we are inclined to be careless, but the summer months seem to accent this unhappy fact. Simple precaution could do much to help this situation.

Individuals who go swimming should do so only after sufficient time, usually an hour, has elapsed after eating, especially if the meal is heavy.

Swimming should be avoided in unguarded areas, unless an expert swimmer is present. Needless to say, children should not be allowed to go swimming unless they are under the supervision of an adult.

Drowning itself is due to obstruction of the respiratory tract by a spasm of the voice box or larynx. Usually only small amounts of water enter the lungs, but the spasm caused by the water in the larynx stops the breathing.

The pulmotor and artificial respiration can often be life-savers for the drowning victim. However, the greatest protection against drowning is still its prevention by the use of adequate care.

Diving Accidents

Another frequent water accident occurs when swimmers dive from unfamiliar piers or diving boards. Many cases of fractured neck occur every year because the water may be shallow in these places. Death or paralysis from the neck down are the results of this type of carelessness. An ounce of prevention could prevent so much sorrow from these summertime accidents.

The Taming of Carney Wilde

Copyright, 1954, by Bart Spicer. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

SYNOPSIS

When Charles Alexander Stewart abandoned with funds from a bank in Philadelphia, he placed Carney Wilde's sleuthing career in jeopardy. Wilde was responsible for the security of the bank. It was up to him, now, to find the thief who had disappeared after killing a policeman in the course of his flight. Wilde's troubles mount when his girl, Jane Grodnick, slopes with his friend, Penn Maxwell, Jane's father, Captain Grodnick of the local police, is as displeased with the match as is Carney, but they soon humoredly bow to the girl's choice. A slim cude, a mere scrap of paper, sends Wilde on his way to New Orleans aboard a river boat making a luxury cruise to the Mardi Gras.

CHAPTER FIVE

THE VALET had left my bag open on the luggage rack at the foot of the bed and I could see a manila folder sticking out from under a stack of shirts. I picked it up as I went by and then sat on the bed.

The folder held my office reports for the month of January. Without looking, I knew just about what the amounts would be. The fixed charges didn't vary. The office rent was the same; salaries fluctuated a trifle, but they averaged $1,500 a week for the 12 operatives I had working for Carney Wilde, Inc. Expense sheets could zoom and fall like a roller-coaster. In January they had been modest; almost all the work had been routine. Profit would be a little more than average last month. Usually I took $200 a week as a salary and planned on having another $1,000 worth a month to put in the bank. January gave me $1,300.

I had something more than $8,000 in my personal account at the Land Title, counting January's take. And Carney Wilde, Inc., had more than $5,000. Most of that came from working for the Department Store association. By June, when the contract expired, I should have another $6,000 in the bank, give or take a little. Nineteen thousand. If I lost the contract and tried to keep my staff together, I could stay in business for eight or nine months. But if I lost the contract I'd be finished as a private detective and I might as well close up the same day, because no one else would want to hire me for a really profitable job.

Worse than goofing off, I'd become a joke, nothing to be taken seriously.

Getting Stewart was the only answer. If I brought him in, I would have no trouble keeping the big contract. If I merely had a hand in finding him, I'd be all right. But if he got away, or someone else turned him up, I was finished in my business. I had to find Stewart.

The valet came with my heavy coat and a suit jacket.

"I thought you might like to have these right away, sir," he said.

"Thanks," I said.

He promised to have the rest of my clothes ready within an hour.

I sat there staring blindly at my overcoat and began to plot an office budget that might reduce expenses enough so I could operate without the Department Store association account. After all, old Eli Jonas would keep on, I knew. And he was the biggest single item in the profit column. Old Eli would...

I sat up and searched my pockets for a cigarette. Old Eli would keep me on. Sure he would. He'd look up at me silently and ruffle up that fringe of bushy white hair and then he'd insist I stay on as his security officer. And he wouldn't even mention that it was his bank that Stewart had robbed. At least he'd never mention it to me. But the knowledge would always be there and just thinking about it would be enough. No matter what happened, I knew I'd never be able to work for Eli Jonas, nor even want to be around him, unless I could find Stewart and bring him in.

half dollars and held them out.

"Now maybe you'll show me where the purser's office is?"

"Right back the way we came, sir. I'll take you there."

On the door of the office was a mahogany placard that said, "T. P. Grenier, Purser."

I rapped and a precise voice called out promptly, and I opened the door. A round, hearty-looking fellow sat behind a rosewood desk. His white hair was thin.

"And you'll be Mr. Wilde, I'll wager," he said, rising to his feet quickly and smiling. He took my hand warmly and pumped it.

"Sit down, hotshot," a thick voice growled. "We don't want you standing around and messing this for us."

I turned to see a solid figure in a wing-back chair. I pulled a chair away from the desk and sat facing the solid man.

"Hello, sergeant," I said. "Have a good trip?"

Sergt. Paul Keble was a homi-dick, one I might have said hello to once or twice. He had never been in charge of a case and he never would be. He looked like everybody's uncle, with a wide beardy face that could be quite a jolly sight when he smiled. Grodnick must have been awfully short-handed to send Keble alone.

He said thickly: "Just sit tight and let me find out if Stewart gets on board. I don't want you letting him get away again."

I stared at him.

"Think you'll find him in here, sergeant?" I asked nastily.

"I'll take care of him, laddie," he said easily. He rolled a fat cigar in his mouth, slipped the glove and fished in my pocket for an envelope that held my reservation statement and $750 in cash. I dropped the envelope on the table and put my glove in my pocket.

"Mr. Wilde. Yes, sir." The young officer ticked off my name on a list, swiftly counted my money and dropped it in a drawer. "Bedroom seven, Mr. Wilde," he said. He tapped a bell and told one of the roustabouts where to take my bag. "Just follow the boy, if you will, sir."

The assistant purser walked beside me toward a huge mahogany double-stairway that curved to the upper decks. "Would you please stop in the purser's office when you've found your room, Mr. Wilde?" He spoke only for my ear. "The boy will take you there, Mr. Wilde," he said. "The purser is expecting you."

The kid with my bag led me up two flights and then down a long corridor. The halls were jammed with people, excitedly inspecting the boat, shrieking gay holiday noises.

"Yo go all the way back, sir," he grinned over his shoulder. "Right over the paddle-wheel."

My room was dim and warm. The boy swept back the drapes on the windows and gave me a fine view of a wide promenade deck and Cincinnati's grimy warehouses beyond. I sat down on the soft double bed and slid my overcoat off my shoulders.

"Air conditioning, too," he said. "Set the temperature to suit yourself. Only the fancy bedrooms are air conditioned."

news behind the news

Editor's Note: This article, the sixth in a series by Ray Tucker from Egypt, replaces his usual Saturday answers to readers' questions.

CAIRO—Former King Farouk of Egypt, who excelled Marc Anthony as the great lover boy of the Nile, is undoubtedly the most hated and despised ruler of all history's deposed monarchs. He ranks below Hitler and Mussolini, in Egyptian opinion, because they at least did something, good and bad.

In a land depressed by too much poverty, too much sun and too much desert, he did nothing but nightclub on a scale that would stagger even New York.

The 110 newspapermen from eighteen countries, invited here to attend the second anniversary of Egypt's military revolution and Farouk's overthrow, have visited and eaten in several of the former king's palaces and harem headquarters. The harems are now empty, for his girl friends have gone underground. They are as unpopular as he is. When they were the palace favorites, they used ruthlessly what power they had.

PALACES—Farouk had about 50 palaces, desert and Mediterranean resorts and private clubs for himself, his family, his friends and his harem. We visited the Chalet des Pyramids, a mile from those ancient piles, the Sphinx and the newly discovered funerary ship. The Chalet is exquisite.

HOT 'N' HANDY CHICKEN

It's picnic weather, indoors as well as out—whether we like it or not—so why not make the most of it and have a picnic right at the dining room table? After all, fingers were made before knives! You're not absolutely obliged to eat this Hot 'n' Handy chicken in your fingers, but if the temptation to do so proves irresistible, you'll find it's a surprisingly tidy process, as well as lots of fun. And the chicken itself is delicious; tender pieces encased in crisp, crusty jackets of crumbs made from enriched yeast-raised bread. Pretty as a picture, too, served with butter-bright corn on the cob and scarlet slices of beefsteak tomatoes, both at their freshest right now.

HOT 'N' HANDY CHICKEN

6 slices enriched yeast-raised bread
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
1 tablespoon salad oil
6 chicken parts (legs and breasts)
1/2 teaspoon salt
Pinch of pepper
1/4 cup flour

Trim crusts from very dry bread. (Fresh bread may be dried out in a very slow oven.) Grate bread to make fine crumbs. Sift to remove coarse pieces. Beat egg slightly with a fork; blend in milk and salad oil. Remove skin from chicken parts. Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Roll in flour then egg mixture and finally in bread crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat (365°F.), turning once, until golden brown. Makes 6 servings.

Junior Woman's Club Is Planning 'Harvest Ball'

The Coliseum at Pickaway County Fairgrounds is to be resplendent in pumpkins, corn fodder and gourds, even a "Harvest Moon", according to plans now being made by Circleville Junior Woman's Club members for their "Harvest Ball" which will be held Oct. 2 in the Coliseum.

Committee members met recently in the home of the dance chairman, Mrs. Sterling Poling, and they report that every effort will be made to offer the best dance music and in every way to make the dance the largest and most successful of the fall season.

Dance committee members are: Mrs. Walter P. Yamarick, orchestra chairman; Mrs. William A. Rickey, in charge of tickets; Mrs.

Sandra Quincel and Janie Smith of Chillicothe.

Mrs. Jenkins was assisted by Mr. Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Badder and Mrs. Robert Dick.

HAVING "BRUSH TROUBLES"?
GET
Bramble-Weedicide
the effective 2-fold action containing 2, 4, 5-T and 2,4-D Esters. Because it is relatively higher cost of 2, 4, 5-T, Bramble-Weedicide may be used advantageously where 2, 4-D alone does not do a satisfactory job on woody tree weeds. Use to improve pasture, reduce rights-of-way maintenance cost, improve hay land with brush infestation.

Bramble-Weedicide
the effective 3-fold action containing 2, 4, 5-T and 2,4-D Esters. Because it's relatively higher cost of 2, 4, 5-T, Bramble-Weedicide may be used advantageously where 2, 4-D alone does not do a satisfactory job on woody type weeds. Use to improve pasture, reduce rights-of-way maintenance cost, improve hay land with brush infestation.

'Kid Baseball,' Softball Skeds To Be On Day-To-Day Basis

With rained out "Kid Baseball" games, a district softball tournament and crazy, mixed-up races in all leagues, schedules are going to be on a very tentative basis from now on, according to park director Dick Boyd.

The Little League proves Boyd's point. Although the Elks took the first round title, they got caught in a three-way first place tie in the second round and are now next to last in the third round.

Kiwanis, with a 3-0 record and General Electric, with a 2-0 mark, currently lead the Little League race. But the two teams face each other Tuesday night to decide the third round winner.

However, Elks, GE and Kiwanis still have to play off their three-way tie. If any games are rained out early in the week, the Rotary-

New Holland game Thursday will be cancelled and the rained-out contest played that night.

THE PONY LEAGUE race is tighter than a small size girdle. Elks and Lions are tied for first with a 2-1 record. GE and Jaycees are close behind with 2-3 records. The leaders face each other Monday night.

Wilson Fords, runners-up in the first half County League race, could clinch the second half title by beating GE Wednesday night. Should Wilson Fords win, they will then meet Ashville Irwins, first half winners, starting Aug. 16 in a best two-out-of-three series.

Also, if Wilson's win their Wednesday game, a postponed contest between GE and Pickaway set for Friday, will not have to be played.

ed unless the two decided to play anyhow. This game has no effect on championships.

Because of the district softball tournament, no softball games were played during the week. Yellow Bud and GE, tied for first in the third round, meet Monday night if they are not scheduled for tournament play.

Ashville B&C Oil is a close second with a 1-1 record as against the leaders' 2-0 marks. All three teams still have two games each to play.

AA All-Star Tilt Slated Monday

INDIANAPOLIS (P)—Seven American Association teams who have been unable to whip Indianapolis all season figure to gang up with their best talent and try it again Monday night.

The occasion is the first revival of the Association All-Star Game since 1946 when the Stars scuttled the Indians, 4-2, getting some measure of satisfaction in laying out that year's league leaders.

The Indians, currently leading the pennant chase by 16 games, will face the finest talent the Association can offer.

Sokol's These Days

The other night, at an after-midnight party I listened to an explanation of how best-seller lists are manipulated to favor Leftist authors. I resolved never again to look at a best seller list unless printed along each listing are the figures of total sales up-to-date. As a matter of fact, some of the books listed sell fewer copies than books that are only listed once or not at all.

Who organizes these queer operations? Martin Dies' report of his experience with radio is similar to reports I have heard from other public men. Only two television companies were willing to show the whole, unedited McCarthy-Stevens hearings, the American Broadcasting Company and Du Mont.

The National Broadcasting Company gave only the Stevens testimony; Columbia gave no unedited version. The late-at-night edited version omitted what they did not want the people to see, on the firm ground that they had to cut out something, and they used their own judgment. That is an editorial prerogative and risk.

It would be interesting to hear what the radio companies have to say about Martin Dies' sworn testimony.

Boys Division Tennis Finals Slated Today

SPRINGFIELD (P)—Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, top-seeded in the first National Junior Chamber of Commerce Tennis Tournament, meets upset minded Joe Cowley of Los Angeles today to decide the boys division champion.

Cowley, seeded No. 6, yesterday knocked second-seeded Gerald Dubie, Hamtramck, Mich., out of the tournament to gain the finals. He posted a cool 6-1, 6-4 victory in the semifinal round of the 15-year-old-and-under event.

Buchholz, a 100-pound dynamo, had trouble with Bob Delgado of Los Angeles. Buchholz didn't get going until midway in the fourth game of the first set, when he won his first point. He lost the first set, 6-1, went into extra games to take the second, 7-5, then came through with a smashing 6-1 victory.

In the junior division (up to 18 years) top seeded players are in semifinal playoffs today. Myron Franks, Los Angeles, seeded No. 1, meets fourth-seeded Allen Quay, St. Petersburg, Fla. Jon Douglas, Santa Monica, Calif., seeded No. 2, meets Mike Green, Miami Beach, Fla., seeded No. 3.

In doubles semifinals, junior division, Franks and Douglas, seeded No. 1, meet Al Holtmann, St. Louis, and Robert Riley, Kansas City; Green and Quay seeded second, meet Don Hicks, Worcester, Mass., and Tom Richardson, Longmeadow, Mass.

In the boys division, top-seeded Cowley and Delgado meet Joe Gaston, Burlington, Iowa, and Bill Voxman, Iowa City, Iowa; Buchholz and Mike Redpath, Kansas City, seeded No. 3, meet Dubie and Ray Senkowski, Hamtramck, Mich., seeded No. 2.

Sport Briefs

By The Associated Press

The Cleveland Browns have traded Bobby Garrett, Stanford's great 1953 quarterback, to Green Bay in exchange for Babe Parilli, former Kentucky quarterback, and Bob Fleck, former Syracuse tackle.

Some 200 drivers and a wide assortment of low-slung sports cars will take over the runways of Lockbourne Air Force Base tomorrow for the second annual Strategic Air Command sports car races.

The 1955 National Target Archery Assn. Tournament will be held on the Miami University campus today.

Funeral services for Frank F. Morshauser, 74, a former shortstop for Atlanta in the Southern Association, will be held Monday. Morshauser, an Atlanta shortstop for 16 years, died yesterday. He was a chiropractor in Cincinnati for 34 years.

The Brooklyn Dodgers today purchased Bob Darnell, 24-year-old right-hander, from St. Paul. He had a 12-9 record with a 3.85 earned run average in the American Association. Darnell reports immediately.

Championship of the Babe Ruth League regional tournament will be decided tonight in a game between Cincinnati and Rock Island, Ill., in Kewanee, Ill. Cincinnati qualified for the finals with a 10-5 victory last night over Harlan, Ky. Winner of tonight's game qualifies for the national finals in Washington, D. C., Aug. 16-21.

When Herb Odom of Michigan State won the NCAA welterweight boxing championship, it was the 11th national ring crown for the Spartans.

Washington Lad Wins Ohio Test

LAKESIDE (P)—An 18-year-old youth from Washington, D. C., Don Schweitzer, won the boys singles tennis championship of northern Ohio yesterday by defeating Toby Perry of Cleveland in the finals, 6-1, 5-7, 6-3.

Sue Crosby, 16, Toledo, won the girls singles title as she eliminated her twin sister, Sally, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4.

Schweitzer teamed with Larry Biederman of Lima to take the boys doubles championship, beating Dick Hubbard of Delaware and John Stoneburner of Ashtabula.

Tiring Redlegs Fold In Brooklyn

BROOKLYN (P)—Russ Meyer, Brooklyn pitcher who had not been able to go the distance against Cincinnati in the last two years, pitched three-hit ball last night. The Bums' Jackie Robinson got as many hits as the entire Red team and led the Dodgers to an 8-1 triumph over the tiring Redlegs. The setback was the eighth in 10 eastern outings for the Reds.

The last major league player to hit four doubles in one game was Al Zarilla of the Boston Red Sox on June 8, 1950.

'Kid Baseball,' Softball Skeds To Be On Day-To-Day Basis

With rained out "Kid Baseball" games, a district softball tournament and crazy, mixed-up races in all leagues, schedules are going to be on a very tentative basis from now on, according to park director Dick Boyd.

The Little League proves Boyd's point. Although the Elks took the first round title, they got caught in a three-way first place tie in the second round and are now next to last in the third round.

Kiwanis, with a 3-0 record and General Electric, with a 2-0 mark, currently lead the Little League race. But the two teams face each other Tuesday night to decide the third round winner.

However, Elks, GE and Kiwanis still have to play off their three-way tie. If any games are rained out early in the week, the Rotary-

New Holland game Thursday will be cancelled and the rained-out contest played that night.

THE PONY LEAGUE race is tighter than a small size girdle. Elks and Lions are tied for first with a 2-1 record, GE and Jaycees are close behind with 2-3 records. The leaders face each other Monday night.

Wilson Fords, runners-up in the first half County League race, could clinch the second half title by beating GE Wednesday night.

Should Wilson Fords win, they will then meet Ashville Irwins, first half winners, starting Aug. 16 in a best two-out-of-three series.

Also, if Wilson's win their Wednesday game, a postponed contest between GE and Pickaway set for Friday, will not have to be played.

Many Alfalfa Fields Need Extra Boron During Dry Weather

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here, headed by County Agent Larry Best, is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Stunted alfalfa plants on many Midwestern farms can often be fattened up by adding boron to phosphate-potash fertilizer top dressings, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"Many alfalfa fields need extra boron," says the statement, "because of continued dry weather. Boron normally available to the alfalfa plants is tied up in the dry soil. Lack of it may cut down growth, reduce the effectiveness of the other nutrients and result in poor yields."

Midwestern agronomists recommend the use of 30 to 40 pounds of borax per acre to fatten up boron-starved alfalfa fields, the committee points out.

Where the alfalfa is used in the rotation, these soils men suggest that borax be added only once in each rotation. But if a long-life stand is desired, they suggest adding borax annually or at least every other year to prevent yellowing and improve the duration of the stand.

Many companies make a fertilizer for alfalfa top dressing carrying a fixed percentage of fertilizer borate, according to the committee.

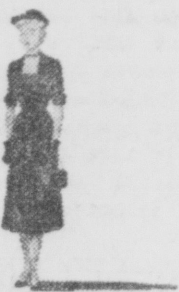

This fertilizer should be used only on alfalfa and not on small grains or other crops. Too much boron on the small grains or corn may adversely effect germination and cut yields severely. "Alfalfa fields can be top dressed most any time" says the committee. "The fertilizer can help boost growth in the spring, in the summer after the first or second hay cutting, or in the fall."

"Alfalfa has a big appetite for phosphate and potash and boron. If you want top yields, you have to feed the crop all the nutrients it needs."

Fumigating wheat within six weeks after it is placed in farm storage will prevent weevil damage, according to T. H. Parks, The Ohio State University extension entomologist adds that grain treated with pyrethrum protectant powder at harvest will not need fumigating.

At least three carbon compounds are sold for fumigating grain. Parks says they are frequently used at too low dosages to give satisfactory control. He recommends three gallons of carbon bisulfide or four to eight gallons of substitute carbon compounds per 1,000 bushels of wheat stored in wooden bins. In steel bins, two gallons of carbon bisulfide will treat 1,000 bushels.

Pretty Girl Forest Fire Watcher Also A Player On Softball Team

By HAL BOYLE

MT. HARNEY, S. D. — A princess dwells atop this 7,240-foot peak, the highest mountain between the Rockies and the Alps.

She is Kathy Clark, 19, a forestry student at the Iowa State Agricultural College, and she is working princess. She mans—all by herself—the highest of 16 fire lookouts in the million-and-a-half acre Black Hills National Forest.

I jumped up to her solitary eyrie with her boss, Supervisor Jack C. Kern, but on the way Kathy, a pretty, dark-haired girl, passed us coming down in another jeep. After 10 days and nights of fire watching, it was her day off.

"Can't stop," she hollered. "I have to play in a softball game, and I'm late."

Kern grinned and waved her on. "Six of our 16 lookout posts now are manned either by girls or by husband and wife teams," he said. "The girls make very dependable fire watchers."

"Kathy is one of our very best. She never gets excited, even during a lightning storm, when we may have six or seven fires going at once."

"She likes the work. This is her third summer. She lives in a little kitchenette beneath the tower, and does her own cooking and laundry."

"Kathy stays up here 8 to 10 days at a time. No, she doesn't get lonely. The job isn't as monotonous as a lighthouse keeper's. The lookouts also act as ground observers for the Air Force. There is always something to do, and, of course, there are a lot of visitors in the summer."

The vista from Mt. Harney is one of the most beautiful in America. The eye can see parts of five states—South Dakota, North Dakota, Wyoming, Montana and Nebraska.

"On a clear day we can detect sun and rain to come through. He called the $56.75 monthly rental for the units "outrageous," and said the association was complaining about rates charged by Waverly for water and sewage. He said the average family is spending in excess of $45 every three months for these services.

a small fire as far as 70 miles away," said Kern matter-of-factly.

People generally think of forest fires as spectacular conflagrations that happen only once or twice a year. But an evergreen forest in a dry summer is a gigantic torch that is lit and put out endlessly.

Fire fighting to the U. S. Forestry Service isn't a sporadic effort, but a high tension, grueling day-to-day effort.

"We had a 10-acre fire today," said Kern, a 20-year veteran at this work. "It was our 167th fire of the year. We have an average of 190 to 200 fires a season in this forest alone.

"About a fourth are caused by careless people. The rest are started by lightning."

The Black Hills forest is only one of some 150 U. S. national forests. But it holds 2½ billion feet of timber, enough to house half a million people in six-room bungalows. It also provides grazing for 24,000 cattle and 13,000 sheep. It shelters more than 90,000 deer, the largest herd of mountain goats in America, and many elk and antelope.

"We in the forestry service regard ourselves as mountain farmers," said Kern.

But just as a hailstorm can destroy a farmer's crop, so a burning cigarette flung from a tourist's car can threaten Kern's whole empire of green.

"Last year we lost only 67 acres through fires," he said. But in 1939 a single fire in the Black Hills devastated 21,000 acres, at one time spreading over 2,900 acres in a single hour. It was finally quelled by 1,750 men who dug trenches and started back-fires over a 47-mile-long battle line.

"You know," said Kern soberly, pointing at a tall slender pine, "it takes a hundred years to grow a tree like that, and if anything happens to it then it will take more than a hundred years for another to fill the scar in the sky it leaves."

Only 15 per cent of the world's forests are being managed as a renewable continuously producing resource.

One military version of a modern transport contains more than 125,000 different parts, not counting bolts and rivets.
